

Am getting very brown. The scenery is

This gnarled and silvery old cedar stands like an OLD SENTINEL guarding the West Beach in Tucker's Town. Walter Rutherford took a famous picture of the tree in 1934. Later he quipped, 'I should cut that tree down so nobody can make the same shot.'

We are having a marvelous time! - only every new scene, everything we do, I wish you were here! Captain and Mrs. Keeper (Commandant of the Naval Operations Base) met us at the plane and took us to our hotel - and late that afternoon had us out to their home for cocktails - where we saw Admiral Jugrich! They were lovely to us. We haven't heard of the Consul General yet (I believe Walter wrote here.)
