MEMORANDUM

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

April 7, 1966

FOR MR. WATSON

On December 7, 1962, President Johnson arrived at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory of the U.S.A.E.C., New Mexico at 2:35 p.m. by helicopter and walked to the C.M.R. Building with President Kennedy. At 2:40 p.m. President Johnson attended a classified Rover briefing. At 3:15 p.m. he met Los Alamos key staff personnel. At 3:30 p.m. he left C.M.R. Building for the football stadium arriving at 3:35 p.m. At 3:50 p.m. he departed the football stadium and arrived at the air strip at 4 p.m. At 4:05 p.m. he was airborne by helicopter to Albuquerque, New Mexico, and arrived Kirkland Air Force Base at 4:45 p.m. At 5:00 p.m. he left Kirkland by Air Force jet star en route to the LBJ Ranch.

Having been informed that President Johnson had not visited any area of 7,000 feet altitude since his heart attack, I had my equipment in readiness, including oxygen with the bag inflated for immediate use if indicated. I was in an adjoining area which was not observable by the group present. Throughout the time of this visit, I paid particular attention to President Johnson and at no time was there any indication of any type of distress. As noted above, the total time at this elevation was 2 hours 25 minutes.
