Dear Sarah:

Walter told me about his conversation with you when you were here for the Inaugural Ceremonies. I was pleased to have your letter and the most impressive resume which you attached.

It is apparent that not only have you distinguished yourself in your service to the Democratic Party through the years, but your record of constructive achievement in the service of your state and of your country is outstanding. I am most anxious for President Kennedy and his people to have benefit of this record and to know that your services are available to him and to his administration.

As I am sure Walter explained, I don't know to what extent I will be consulted on these appointments, but it will be a pleasure to use every opportunity I have to insure that your experience, your willingness, and your qualifications are given the highest consideration.

I am sorry that Ambassador Zorin left the meeting in New York as he did, but I do not believe that any remarks of mine precipitated the action.

He left at the place in the address when it was stated "any would-be aggressor's attack on Europe would be a most hazardous enterprise." Newsweek in the December 11th issue reported also that the Ambassador didn't take the nearest exit but chose one that brought him past the television cameras. I believe that the exit line and the departure speak for themselves.

November 24, 1961

Dear Mr. Hughes:

In response to your telegram of 27 September and my reply to you on 28 September, concerning the rehabilitation of oil drums damaged during hurricane "Carla," I forward the following information.

The Department of the Navy, Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, which has jurisdiction in this situation, reports that approximately 450,000 Government-owned 55-gallon drums were scattered throughout the Texas City area, blocking business and residential properties as well as roads. So this condition could be remedied, and the drums repositioned to meet emergency military demands, the drums were collected, rehabilitated, and replaced in their original storage area as expeditiously as possible. To accomplish this it was necessary to use every resource available in and around Texas City to collect and rehabilitate the drums.

I am informed that differences between the Local Painters' Union #585, and the Government contractor, were resolved on 30 September 1961, and work was resumed on 2 October 1961. It is my understanding that everything possible is being done to employ local labor on this project. I trust the work goes smoothly, and that future arrangements are handled favorably and to the advantage of everyone concerned.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Lyndon B. Johnson

October 26, 1961

Dear Mr. Hughes:

May I extend to the National Employment Association my warmest welcome to Fort Worth and to Texas.

The Annual Convention of the National Employment Association comes at a time when the manpower needs of our country are being subjected to the most rigorous appraisal in light of our national needs for the decade of the 1960's.

Careful studies show that the best employment outlook during the decade ahead will be in the technical and professional occupations, which will probably account for more than 13 percent of total jobs in the labor force by 1970, compared with about 10 percent in 1959. Within this area the National Employment Association can make a significant contribution by supplying the increased numbers of highly trained people needed to maintain our position of world leadership in science and the arts.

May I direct your attention to certain areas of weakness in our utilization of American manpower.

Many older workers -- some as young as 40 -- are experiencing difficulty in finding jobs despite high levels of experience and satisfactory performance. Automation is replacing many highly skilled workers prematurely. This invaluable source must be used fully during the decade ahead if we are to meet the needs of industry for ever increasing numbers of trained personnel.

During the 1960's the number of young people in the labor force will increase nearly 50 percent. By the late 1960's, 3,000,000 new young workers will enter the labor force each year, as compared with 2,000,000 a year now starting their work careers. Altogether 26,000,000 new young workers will enter the labor force during the 1960's -- almost 40 percent more than during the 1950's. Here is a great challenge for the National Employment Association in fitting young people into useful occupations.

As Chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity I want to stress particularly the great need to expand employment opportunities for Negroes. Unfortunately, many of our fellow citizens are denied employment opportunities not because of their lack of education or professional training, but simply because of their color. Many professionally trained Negroes are working far below their level of skill simply because of an arbitrary deprivation of full job rights. Negroes with training as physicists, chemists, biologists, engineers and physicians must be brought into our work force at the full level of their skills if we are to meet the increasing demand for technically trained personnel that our country will experience during the 1960's.

The National Employment Association has made great contributions to our national well-being in establishing an orderly movement of workers into positions for which they are qualified. Our very national existence may depend upon the efficiency with which we utilize our great natural resource of workers during the decade ahead. I am confident the National Employment Association will respond to the challenge and turn in an outstanding performance.

Sincerely yours,

Lyndon B. Johnson

Since I have never had a speed test to determine my reading rate I don't know how I would be classed -- I am not aware of being or think of myself as being a fast reader. And, I have not had any training designed to increase the reading rate.

Dear Mr. Hughes:

Your feelings and apprehensions about the plane piracy certainly are understandable and I fully share your views. We must protect the property of the United States people, and above all, the lives and safety of the passengers. Border patrolmen are now "riding shotgun" on certain flights of commercial airlines, and, I understand, the doors to the pilot's compartment are locked with the keys kept on the inside.

It is hoped that governments everywhere will put in to effect all possible preventative measures to bring an end to these base acts.

We all must note that the El Paso highjacking and the Pan-American piracy were perpetrated by persons who have been treated in mental institutions, but, as you say, every effort must be made to halt such acts no matter the mental condition of the pirate. Punishment for persons committing such acts now is being enacted. This should prove to be another deterrent.

Lyndon B. Johnson

Dear Mr. Hughes:

You may be interested in knowing that I recently delivered to Chiang Kai-shek President Kennedy's assurances that the United States does not intend to recognize Communist China. The assurances were clear and unequivocal.

The question of continuation of the self-imposed ban of nuclear tests is under careful study. This ban, however, is not based upon the assumption that the Soviet Union recognizes principles of conduct similar to those to which we adhere, but on practical questions of whether it would help to mobilize world opinion in such a way as to place pressure on the Soviet Union. I am confident that this question will be resolved practically and in the best interests of the United States.

As you know, I supported the Administration's aid to education bill. I believe it is vitally necessary to educate our young and I think that the Federal government can be helpful without asserting Federal control over local school systems.

Dear Mrs. Hubsch:

I am delighted to know that your sixth grade class is coming to Washington. I cannot tell at this time what my schedule will be on May 13 but if you will come by my office, one of my assistants, Captain H. V. Bird, will be glad to talk to your group if I am not available.

Please express my appreciation to your students for their well-written letters.

All good wishes for a pleasant trip to Washington.

Sincerely,

Lyndon B. Johnson

Dear Mr. Huett:

Thank you for your kind references. I am hopeful that my efforts in my new responsibilities will justify your confidence.

Your application to the Texas Securities Department appears to be one wholly within the jurisdiction of Texas State officials and not one in which the Federal Government here would have authority. Nevertheless, I am making inquiry and will be in touch with you again. As soon as I have some official statement.

Sincerely,

I am very grateful to you for your kind invitation to be present for the Public Relations Banquet on Tuesday, April 18th.

I wish there were some way I could accept it, but as you can imagine, my schedule for the next few months is quite full and I am not able to take on any more engagements, no matter how attractive they are.

Perhaps you will give me a raincheck for some other time. I hope so. It would be a pleasure to see and visit with you.

With very best wishes.

Since the House of Representatives has exclusive jurisdiction over the life and activities of this committee, may I suggest that you also write to your Congressman and let him know of your interest?

It was good to hear from you, and I hope you will continue to share your thinking with me on the important issues facing us.

Thank you very much for your nice letter of February 27th, and for the enclosures.

I deeply appreciate your overly generous comments about Mr. Sam and me in the Columbia Pioneer.

It was good to have your recommendation with respect to construction of the new veterans hospital in Vancouver, Washington. Although, as you know, I have no vote in Congress except in cases of a tie in the Senate, I will certainly bear your comments in mind in the event I am consulted about the matter.

You are correct in your understanding of the letter, but it was received from President Kennedy and not Attorney General Kennedy. I am enclosing for your information a copy of the letter.

As for the bill itself, it is one which would require the most careful study. There is nothing more complicated than the creation of Federal Judgeships, and many factors must be taken into account.

I plan to study the hearings with great interest, and also to get all the advice that I can from the best experts that I can.

Dear Friend:

Thank you for your recent correspondence concerning former President Eisenhower's order restricting military dependent travel.

I have always been concerned with the welfare of the men serving in our Armed Services.

There has been concern voiced by many of the men and their dependents regarding this order. In an effort to devise a solution, the new Administration will determine the best steps for our country to take in view of the circumstances surrounding the necessity of issuing the order. This will be done by studious and careful investigation of all facts available on this critical problem.

I appreciate having your thoughts on this serious matter and I hope you will continue to share them with me.
