					TOASTS were exchanged. and After the President's toasting each of his honored guests, the guests replied. Mary V. Busby reported that the general feeling around the room in which she was sitting was that Speaker McCormack's return toast was a very moving tribute to the President.
	10:35p				COFFEE in the parlors and hallway
					After coffee and before entertainment began, the President spent considerable time -- twenty minutes -- according to Mrs. Busby, talking privately with Dick Wilson, the journalist.
	10:55p				Entertainment in the East Room. Husband and Wife team, Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy
	11:50p				Dancing in the main lobby. The President danced first with Mrs. Johnson when he did finally get to the dance floor -- 45 minutes after the music had started. He then danced a few minutes with her, and then began cutting in on other couples on the dance floor. He was seen dancing with Mrs. Otis Chandler, Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, Mrs. Jerre Williams of Austin.
					Mrs. Busby next spent some time talking with Mrs. Tom Clark, who said she had attended the xxxx dinners last two annual dinners of this same sort given by President Roosevelt and each one every year since that time, and said that she felt they were becoming increasingly more informal which was making them a great deal more enjoyable.
