	11:00a				The President awakened and went to the sitting room where he had an excellent view of the area where a tree planting ceremony was to be held. Directly below his window, Mrs. Johnson had met Secretary Udall and with him was waiting to walk the several feet to the area where the tree was to be planted. The President opened the window, leaned down, and said, "You all hurry up and plant that tree so I can go to bed." Mrs. Johnson laughed, and the Secretary answered by saying that they were waiting for the press and photogs to gather. However, the President said he just couldn't wait any longer and went back to bed.
