Day Wednesday

NOTE: The Washington Post, for Thursday a.m. indicated that the President did not specifically deny that a change was being made in Reischauer's position.	near him. On two questions, Secretary Freeman pointed out that the President could answer them better than he -- so the President took the floor and answered the questions. Just prior to leaving, the President again asked their attention and told them not to take seriously the rumors of Alexis Johnson being appointed to succeed our Ambassador to Japan, Edwin Reischauer. He then answered several other questions. ..also the President denied the AP story re a tax rise (Bob Fleming:mf)

C	12:24p	12:30p			Patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Western Hemisphere, Archbishop Iakovos and Rev. John T. Tavlarides, Rector of the Greek Orthodox Cathedral of St. Sophia Rev. Demetrios Kalaris, Pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of Sts. Constantine and Helen appt requested by Rev. George Davis w/ Mike Manatos	Briefing material to DT
					(Mike Manatos said that the patriarch came in to pay his respects to the President and to tell him of the problems of the patriarchate in Istanbul. The Patriarch asked nothing of the President -- only suggested that the President might ask the State Department to have visiting American officials in Istanbul pay a call on the Patriarch, thus raising his sights in the eyes of the Turks, and indicating a sympathy of the U.S. with the Greek Orthodox Church. The President agreed to do what he could. The Patriarch left walking on a cloud -- he was delighted and pleased with his audience and the response he got from the President.)
