					Both sides of the street at the Harriman residence were crowded with watchers--many with cameras. Lynda and Warrie Lynn arrived alone--preceding ^{separated} parents--and they left separately. Luci, Pat, Mrs. Harriman accompanied the First Lady and the President to the front door and stood in the doorway as Ambassador Harriman walked them to the car. Spectators broke out in spontaneous and prolonged applause--very dignified--no yelling or shouting, and Mrs. Harriman said, "Mr. President, you have many friends here." mjdr:mf
