Creator: Deming, Frederick Lewis, 1912-2003

Biographical sketch:

Frederick Lewis Deming (b. September 12, 1912, Des Moines, Iowa-d. August 21, 2003, Fort Myers, Florida), investment banker, served as Undersecretary for Monetary Affairs in the United States Treasury Department from 1965 to 1969.

Scope and content note:

This collection contains files collected by Frederick L. Deming during his service as Under Secretary of the Treasury. The materials consist of speeches, schedules, correspondence, memorandums, notes, reports, clippings, telegrams, invitations, and publications. The topics reflected in the files pertain to Deming's travel; the various meetings, symposia, and conferences he attended or was invited to attend; international economics; sterling silver; gold; banking; monetary affairs; and foreign currencies including the British Pound, the French franc, and the German mark. There are also a small number of loose photographs, framed photographs, and photograph albums. In addition to the Department of Treasury, there is also material related to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the Brookings Institute.
