NATIONAL SECURITY FILE Files of Arthur McCafferty

Scope and content note:

Arthur McCafferty was a member of the National Security Staff. His duties included running the White House Situation Room. His files contain memoranda and reports about the staffing and day-to-day operation of the Situation Room during the Johnson administration.

Some of the material includes summaries or mentions of intelligence information that was transmitted through the Situation Room and concerning United States national security. In particular, there are memorandums, charts, and maps concerning ongoing actions and events affecting the United States and United States military in Vietnam.

Finally, there are memorandums concerning the protocol for distribution of information going through the Situation Room. The folder "McCafferty Memos to the President" also contains a small amount of material from the early months of the Nixon administration.
