you choosing. Was that right?

Doris and Dobby and I have spent the day in Shrew-port - Dad at the ^{various} 'big' doctors'
- and Doris and I waiting.
We had plenty of time, and almost a dollar, so we went in Kress' and had a for time buying little blue pottery bowls and dappled bowls and paper white narcissus and Bohemian red (imitation, of course!) glassware!! I just revel in Kress' - and almost never have time to stay as long as I like.

We arrived home just in time for supper, not in time to go to the store, and found that Fred - one of Dad's boys who stays here - had not

Monday Night

My dearest -

Well, they're mailed - the proofs! I'm so glad to get them off I could shout
- you're always so quick about everything, and it seems I've taken an awful time.

The two that are ^{almost} finished are the photographer's samples
- and besides they're not finished being "washed" yet, so just write on the backs like you tell me to do on yours and mail them back to me and I'll have it made up pronto!
Doris insisted that I have a certain one finished up and framed and sent on to you Samano but I held out for brought either the paper or the mail. So we both wanted to guillotine him - for different reasons. And he told me I'd three letters, one from Washington. Well - in the morning will come at last, I suppose!

The radio is playing "my dear" ... and the fire is crackling ever so cozily... I wish you were here. Now it is saying "you mean so much to me." You do, you know.

Doris and I looked also at sofas and big fat chairs for living rooms and revelled in them!! I now cannot wait until the painting and walls are done so I can buy the three or four pieces of furniture we're to have! (It's more fun - and such a lot I'm learning!)

What does your ^{Austin} have to say about your plans - or have you told her? I know she'll be glad to have you there, Lynden. And I - I shall manage to see you most every week-end, somehow!

Goodnight, my love... I wish I had your letter so I could see what you said to me today. But in the morning - And as ~~business~~ ^{business} reaches, dearest I love you, Bird
