Collection: National Security Files

Series: Files of the Special Committee of the National Security Council [NAID 7369107]

Scope and content note:

These are the files of McGeorge Bundy when he served as Executive Secretary of the Special Committee of the National Security Council established on June 7, 1967, by President Johnson to coordinate handling of the Middle East Crisis (Six Day War) of 1967. The Committee ended its formal work in mid-August, and the files contain an August 24, 1967, letter from Bundy to the President recommending arrangements for continuing the work of the Committee through the normal machinery of government.

The material covers a wide range of topics relating to international affairs impacted by the crisis including economy, agriculture, trade, and travel bans. In addition, the documents also reflect more immediate topics related to the crisis including the attack on the USS Liberty, military aid, arms limitations, intelligence reports, statements made concerning the crisis, resolutions, and international leaders' reactions and positions regarding the crisis, as well as international attempts at negotiations and resolutions of the crisis. It also includes some background material on the crisis and some material extending beyond the initial crisis.
